Case No.

Plaintiffs,

v.

TRISTAR PRODUCTS, INC.,

Defendant.

COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs, by and through his attorneys, ██, upon information and belief, at all times hereinafter mentioned, alleges as follows:

NATURE OF THE CASE

1. Defendant Tristar Innovative Products, Inc. (formerly known as Tristar Products, Inc., and hereinafter generally referred to as “Defendant Tristar”) designs, manufactures, markets, imports, distributes and sells a wide-range of consumer products, including the subject “Power Pressure Cooker,” which specifically includes the Tristar Pressure Cooker Model Number Y6D-36 (referred to hereafter as “pressure cooker(s)").

2. Defendant Tristar touts that its pressure cookers are designed with several “Built-In Safety Devices,” which purport to keep the consumer safe while using the pressure cooker. Such Safety Devices include a supposed “lid safety device.” The “lid safety device” is intended to prevent the unit from building pressure if the lid is not closed properly, as well as to prevent the lid from opening until all pressure is released.¹

3. Despite Defendant Tristar's claims of "safety," it designed, manufactured, marketed, imported, distributed and sold, both directly and through third-party retailers, a product that suffers from serious and dangerous defects. Said defects cause significant risk of bodily harm and injury to its consumers.

4. Specifically, said defects manifest themselves when, despite Defendant Tristar's statements and "Safety Devices," the lid of the pressure cooker is removable with built-up pressure, heat and steam still inside the unit. When the lid is removed under such circumstances, the pressure trapped within the unit causes the scalding hot contents to be projected from the unit and into the surrounding area, including onto the unsuspecting consumers, their families and other bystanders.

5. Defendant Tristar knew or should have known of these defects but has nevertheless put profit ahead of safety by continuing to sell its pressure cookers to consumers, failing to warn said consumers of the serious risks posed by the defects, and failing to recall the dangerously defective pressure cookers regardless of the risk of significant injuries to Plaintiff and consumers like him.

6. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Tristar's conduct, the Plaintiffs in this case incurred significant and painful bodily injuries, medical expenses, physical pain, mental anguish, and diminished enjoyment of life.

PLAINTIFFS [REDACTED] AND [REDACTED]

7. Plaintiff [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] (collectively referred to as “Plaintiffs”) are residents and citizens of the city of Searcy, County of White, State of Arkansas. [REDACTED] is four years old, and resides with his mother, [REDACTED]

8. On or about June 12, 2020, both Plaintiffs suffered serious and substantial injuries as the direct and proximate result of the pressure cooker’s lid being able to be rotated and opened while the pressure cooker was still under pressure, during the normal, directed use of the pressure cooker, allowing its scalding hot contents to be forcefully ejected from the pressure cooker and onto Plaintiff. The incident occurred as a result of the failure of the pressure cooker’s supposed “Built-In Safety Devices,” which purport to keep the consumer safe while using the pressure cooker. In addition, the incident occurred as the result of Defendant Tristar’s failure to redesign the pressure cooker, despite the existence of economical, safer alternative designs.

15. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because Defendant is a resident and citizen of this district.

16. Venue is also proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because Defendant has sufficient minimum contacts with the State of Florida and intentionally availed itself of the markets within Florida through the promotion, sale, marketing, and distribution of its products.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

17. Defendant Tristar is engaged in the business of designing, manufacturing, warranting, marketing, importing, distributing and selling the pressure cookers at issue in this litigation.

18. Defendant Tristar aggressively warrants, markets, advertises and sells its pressure cookers as “state of the art kitchen science,”⁶ allowing consumers to cook “wholesome, sit down, family-style meal[s] with just the push of a button;”⁷ “in a fraction of the time”⁸ as other kitchen appliances; and that “[t]here’s no safer way to cook.”⁹

19. To further propagate its message, Defendant Tristar has, and continues to utilize numerous media outlets including, but not limited to, television infomercials, social media websites such as YouTube, third-party retailers, and professional chef endorsements. For example, the following can be found on Defendant Tristar’s Power Pressure Cooker XL website¹⁰ from “culinary expert” Eric Theiss, who is featured in many of Defendant Tristar’s YouTube videos, as well as its television infomercial:

"I have seriously never seen a cook tool so easy, so versatile, so affordable that anyone can make quality, delicious meals, perfectly cooked from the very first time! The Perfect Cooker is the one pot that does it all!"¹¹

20. In one YouTube video, Mr. Theiss states that “when your pressure cooker is up to pressure, the lid locks on. I couldn’t get this lid open if I wanted to. There’s no way you’re gonna open it. So, it's loaded with Safety Devices, you guys. So, if you've never used a pressure cooker before, this is one of the safest ones you can get."¹² Later in the video, when Mr. Theiss is releasing the pressure from the pressure cooker, he states that "even if I wanted to," he couldn't open the lid "because the pressure is still inside."¹³ The pressure cooker "knows" when the pressure has fully released and will unlock "automatically."

21. According to the Owner's Manual accompanying each individual unit sold, the pressure cookers purport to have "Built-In Safety Devices," misleading the consumer into believing that the pressure cookers are reasonably safe for their normal, intended use. Said "Safety Devices"¹⁴ include, but are not limited to, the following:

- SAFETY LID LOCK: The Lid tabs connect under the Base tabs to lock the Lid to the Base when fully closed.
- POSITIVE PRESSURE MECHANISM (FLOAT VALVE): When the pressure reaches a required point, the pressure lifts the Float Valve up, contacting the Locking Pin.
- LID POSITIONING SENSOR: A magnetic sensor indicates whether the Lid is fully closed. The Unit will beep and display "LID" when the Lid is not locked or is not required for a preprogrammed setting.
- LID INNER TRAY (GUARD): The Inner Lid prevents food from entering the Upper Lid and entering the Float Valve and Pressure Release Chambers.
- ANTI-BLOCKAGE GUARD: Guards the underside of the Pressure Release Valve.
- TWO-STEP SECURITY RESET FOR QUICK RELEASE: The Steam Release Switch needs to be slid once to release the steam and then let go to open the Lid. If there is steam/pressure coming out of the Pressure Release Valve or your hand is still holding the Steam Release Switch in the Open position, the Lid will not slide to open.

¹⁴ See Power Quick Pot Digital Pressure Cooker Model No. Y6D-36 Owner's Manual, pg. 6.

- EXCESS PRESSURE RELEASE SYSTEM: The Pressure Release Valve is weighted, which maintains a pressure level and only allows the Unit to build pressure at a certain level. When the pressure is higher than the weight can handle, the steam is released until the pressure is less than the weight.
- AUTOMATIC TEMPERATURE CONTROL: The temperature is regulated by the programming to maintain a consistent temperature.
- PRESSURE CONTROLLER: The Inner Pot sits on a pressure plate. When there is too much pressure, the plate depresses and turns off the heater, which stops the pressure from increasing.
- ELECTRICAL (CURRENT-TEMP) PROTECTION: There is a temperature sensor on the Base of the Unit. When the temperature rises above the preprogrammed setting, the heater shuts down and then fluctuates to allow the Unit to maintain the correct temperature.
- CYCLE INDICATOR (LCD DISPLAY): The LCD display changes colors and a program countdown is shown.
- ANTI-TAMPER FLOAT VALVE GUARD: A screen on the Lid covers the Float Valve, so it cannot be tampered with.

22. In addition to the “Built-In Safety Devices” listed in the manual, in Defendant Tristar’s “Frequently Asked Questions” YouTube video,¹⁵ Defendant Tristar states that lid of the pressure cookers “should only come off if there [is] no pressure inside.”¹⁶ Specifically:

- “People worry that the lid might come off. It won’t.” (1:02)
- “The lid on the Power Pressure Cooker XL can only come off if there’s no pressure left inside the pot. And remember, if there is pressure present inside the pot, the lid will stay securely closed so you don’t have to worry.” (1:02)
- “Once your meal is finished, the unit will depressurize and automatically stop cooking and switch to the Keep Warm mode. There’s no safer way to cook.” (2:54)

23. By reason of the forgoing acts or omissions, the above-named Plaintiffs and/or their family purchased their pressure cooker with the reasonable expectation that it was properly designed and manufactured, free from defects of any kind, and that it was safe for its intended, foreseeable use of cooking.

¹⁵ <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kCESkfSSROk> (last accessed September 7, 2022).

24. Plaintiff ██████████ used the pressure cooker for its intended purpose of preparing meals for himself and/or family and did so in a manner that was reasonable and foreseeable by Defendant Tristar.

25. However, the aforementioned pressure cooker was defectively designed and manufactured by Defendant Tristar in that it failed to properly function as to prevent the lid from being removed with normal force while the unit remained pressurized, despite the appearance that all the pressure had been released, during the ordinary, foreseeable and proper use of cooking food with the product; placing the Plaintiff and similar consumers in danger while using the Pressure Cookers.

26. Defendant Tristar's pressure cookers possess defects that make them unreasonably dangerous for their intended use by consumers because the lid can be rotated and opened while the unit remains pressurized.

27. Further, Defendant Tristar's representations about "safety" are not just misleading, they are flatly wrong, and put innocent consumers like Plaintiff directly in harm's way.

28. Economic, safer alternative designs were available that could have prevented the Pressure Cooker's lid from being rotated and opened while pressurized. Examples of such designs include, but are not limited to, the following examples:

- a. Designing the Pressure Cooker with a longer locking pin that could be gripped between user's thumb and the forefinger, in combination with changing the base unit locking lug ramp angle on the locking lug adjacent the locking pin from 45-degrees to 90-degrees;
- b. Designing a lid shield with fewer holes for steam passage, and with those holes positioned as far away as possible from the manual release and floating valves to reduce the likelihood of clogging; and,

- c. Designing the holes in the lid shield to direct any contents away from the valve.

29. Defendant Tristar knew or should have known that its pressure cookers possessed defects that pose a serious safety risk to Plaintiffs and the public. For example:

- a. The Consumer Products Safety Commission has received several reports¹⁷ of other similar incidents stemming from the failure of the Power Pressure Cooker and other Power Cooker models¹⁸ with the same supposed “Built-In Safety Devices,” and design defects such as the following:
 - i. October 30, 2014: (“After hearing the loud boom [I] checked the cooker saw the mess it created and the lid was detached from the cooker sitting upside down on the pot.”)
 - ii. March 20, 2015: (“My "Power Pressure cooker" exploded with fire hot chicken soup in it, covering my entire kitchen, hitting m[e] in the head with a piece of chicken, and burning my arm. My 7 year old child and his friend had just came through the the [sic] kitchen not seconds before this happened. The [explosion] did damage to my walls and cabinets, and had anyone been standing closer to it, it could have killed or seriously injured my family and my son[‘s] friend.”)
 - iii. November 5, 2015: (“I purchased a power pressure cooker that said it had a built-in safety feature[.] I did as the instructions said as far as my 1st use. Cook[ed] some water for 15 mins. After that it was ready for use[.] I cooked some collard greens and after I released all the pressure, I turned the handle...and it exploded all over and my husband and I got burned. I will never again in [my] life recommend this product to anyone! It is not safe at all!!!”)
 - iv. November 10, 2015: (“[O]n October 4, 2015 the pressure cooker had a bad malfunction[.] [T]he lid released when it was not suppose[d] to...I went to opened the pressure cooker and it exploded...I looked at my arm saw my skin coming off then I knew we had to go to the hospital.”)
 - v. January 20, 2016: (“Person was using a Tristar Products, Inc. (“Tristar”) Model # PPC-770 Serial # CA0148623 pressure cooker for the first time. The top of the cooker came off unexpectedly and the contents exploded out of the cooker.”)

¹⁷ The date listed is the date the report of injury was sent to Tristar.

¹⁸ Defendant Tristar’s other Power Cooker models (PC-WAL1 and PC-TRI6) and Power Pressure Cooker XL models (PCXL-PRO6, PPC-770, PPC-770-1, PPC-770, PPC-780 and PPC-790) have experienced numerous, similar occurrences like those alleged by the Plaintiff herein.

- vi. March 8, 2016: (“I was preparing dinner for my family using the Power Pressure Cooker XL. I had selected the soup option and set the timer for 25 minutes. When the timer went off notifying me that the cooking was complete, I turned the pressure release valve allowing the pressure to escape. I let this action continued [sic] for over 15 minutes until the valve dropped and no other pressure released. I then went to turn the lid to remove when the pressure from the cooker exploded causing hot scalding soup to erupt all over my kitchen and myself. I received second degree burns on my left hand and right breast. My doctor prescribed Silvadene to help with the healing process and deter infection, but will be going for a would check to ensure it is healing properly.”)
- vii. April 14, 2016: (“Consumer was cooking with the pressure cooker, then released the pressure valve. Then [later] came to open it and the lid blew off and contents exploded all over consumer’s body. Product was supposed to stay locked until all pressure was released, which it did not”)
- viii. April 19, 2016: (“Consumer was cooking pea soup in pressure pot XL. Consumer walked into the room where the pea soup was cooking and the pressure pot lid exploded all over consumer.”)
- ix. August 17, 2016: (“Went to open pressure cooker. Turned the valve to release the pressure and it did not release. [I] attempt[ed] to repeat this step with no change. Went to turn the lid and open the cooker. Pressure cooker contents burst and burned me.”)
- x. November 10, 2016: (“We were using a Tristar Pressure Cooker last night when 10 minutes into the cook time we heard a loud pop and a steaming sound. We went into the kitchen to see that it had popped its seal and was unlocked with steam coming out. We quickly unplugged it and turned the pressure release button. We didn't open it until it was finished steaming and then open it. We didn't use it again.”)
- xi. April 7, 2017: (“Pressure cooker malfunction resulting in injury. At approximately 5:50 pm, I was cooking dinner in the Power Cooker Plus (Tristar) pressure cooker. I have used it many times and I am very familiar with pressure cooker usage. When the meal was done, I manually released the pressure using the valve. Believing the pressure to be fully released, I attempted to turn the lid. The lid is advertised as a safety lid that should not turn if there is any pressure. However, the lid did turn and, as it did, the scalding hot contents of the pot erupted and shot out of the pressure cooker.”)
- xii. June 9, 2017: (“My wife was cooking dinner using Tristar power pressure cooker xl. The product indicated it was done and all directions were followed to release pressure. While releasing cover the contents exploded all over leaving my wife with second and third degree burns on her hands, arms, chest and stomach.”)

- xiii. November 1, 2017: (“While using a Power Cooker Pressure Cooker as called for by the instructions the top exploded off and I received substantial second degree burns to my arm and chest. As a result of my injuries[,] I have suffered scarring and had to receive medical care and have incurred medical bills.”)
 - xiv. February 14, 2018: (“My client was using the Tristar Power Pressure cooker to cook a roast. The cooker exploded and she sustained severe burns to her face, shoulders, neck and breasts. She was rushed to the emergency room and immediately admitted to the hospital.”)
 - xv. April 11, 2018: (“I was cooking stuffed peppers in the Power Pressure Cooker XL. The level of liquid was well below the recommended max level. After it finished cooking, I released the steam vent. When I did, hot sauce was spewing all over my kitchen counter, cabinets and floor. Luckily I had a few kitchen towels close by to put on top of the valve to contain the spraying hot liquid and avoided a serious burn. However the clean up was awful and I have not used the unit since.”)
- b. Several lawsuits have been filed in District Courts throughout the United States alleging failure of the Power Pressure Cooker XL and Power Cooker models with the same supposed “Built-In Safety Devices” and design defects. Specifically, see the following:
- i. Ninfa Vasquez and Jose Vasquez v. Tristar Products, Inc. (Filed in the Southern District of Texas Brownsville Division, June 12, 2016.) Approximately two hours after unplugging the cooker, suddenly and without warning, the lid blew off of the cooker, and the pinto beans burst out of the cooker onto Mrs. Vasquez, resulting in extensive and severe burns to her body.”) Plf. - d. A class action lawsuit was filed on May 10, 2016 in the in the Northern District of Ohio Eastern Division alleging similar incidents, failures and defects. The case of Kenneth Chapman, Jessica Vennel, and Jason Jackson, on behalf of themselves and all other similar situated v. Tristar Products, Inc. (1:16-cv-1114) went to trial by jury on Monday, July 10, 2017, with the Honorable Judge James Gwin presiding. The matter settled prior to the jury returning a verdict.

30. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Tristar’s concealment of such defects, its failure to warn consumers of such defects, its negligent misrepresentations, its failure to remove a product with such defects from the stream of commerce, and its negligent design of such products, Plaintiff used an unreasonably dangerous Pressure Cooker, which resulted in significant and painful bodily injuries upon Plaintiff’s simple removal of the lid of the Pressure Cooker.

31. Consequently, the Plaintiffs in this case seek damages resulting from the use of Defendant Tristar’s pressure cooker as described above, which has caused the Plaintiffs to suffer from serious bodily injuries, medical expenses, physical pain, mental anguish, diminished enjoyment of life, and other damages.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I STRICT LIABILITY

32. At the time of Plaintiffs’ injuries, Defendant Tristar’s pressure cookers were defective and unreasonably dangerous for use by foreseeable consumers, including Plaintiffs.

33. Defendant Tristar’s pressure cookers were in the same or substantially similar condition as when they left the possession of Defendant Tristar.

34. Plaintiffs did not misuse or materially alter the pressure cooker.

35. The pressure cooker did not perform as safely as an ordinary consumer would have expected it to perform when used in a reasonably foreseeable way.

36. Further, a reasonable person would conclude that the possibility and seriousness of harm outweighs the burden or cost of making the pressure cookers safe. Specifically:

- a. The pressure cookers designed, manufactured, sold, and supplied by Defendant Tristar were defectively designed and placed into the stream of commerce in a defective and unreasonably dangerous condition for consumers;
- b. The seriousness of the potential burn injuries resulting from the product drastically outweighs any benefit that could be derived from its normal, intended use;
- c. Defendant Tristar failed to properly market, design, manufacture, distribute, supply, and sell the pressure cookers, despite having extensive knowledge that the aforementioned injuries could and did occur;
- d. Defendant Tristar failed to warn and place adequate warnings and instructions on the pressure cookers;
- e. Defendant Tristar failed to adequately test the pressure cookers; and
- f. Defendant Tristar failed to market an economically feasible alternative design, despite the existence of the aforementioned economical, safer alternatives, that could have prevented the Plaintiff's injuries and damages.

37. Defendant Tristar's actions and omissions were the direct and proximate cause of the Plaintiffs' injuries and damages.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment against Defendant Tristar for damages, together with interest, costs of suit, and all such other relief as the Court deems proper.

COUNT II
NEGLIGENCE

38. Defendant Tristar has a duty of reasonable care to design, manufacture, market, and sell non-defective pressure cookers that are reasonably safe for their intended uses by consumers, such as the Plaintiffs.

39. Defendant Tristar failed to exercise ordinary care in the manufacture, sale, warnings, quality assurance, quality control, distribution, advertising, promotion, sale and marketing of its pressure cookers in that Defendant Tristar knew or should have known that said pressure cookers created a high risk of unreasonable harm to the Plaintiffs and consumers alike.

40. Defendant Tristar was negligent in the design, manufacture, advertising, warning, marketing and sale of its pressure cookers in that, among other things, it:

- a. Failed to use due care in designing and manufacturing the pressure cookers to avoid the aforementioned risks to individuals;
- b. Placed an unsafe product into the stream of commerce;
- c. Aggressively over-promoted and marketed its pressure cookers through television, social media, and other advertising outlets; and
- d. Were otherwise careless or negligent.

41. Despite the fact that Defendant Tristar knew or should have known that consumers were able to remove the lid while the pressure cookers were still pressurized, Defendant Tristar continued to market (and continues to do so) its pressure cookers to the general public.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendant Tristar for damages, together with interest, costs of suit, and all such other relief as the Court deems proper.

COUNT III
STRICT LIABILITY - DESIGN DEFECT

42. Defendant Tristar is the manufacturer, seller, distributor, marketer, and supplier of the subject pressure cooker, which was defectively and negligently designed.

43. Defendant Tristar failed to exercise reasonable care in designing, developing, manufacturing, inspecting, testing, packaging, selling, distributing, labeling, marketing, and promoting its pressure cookers, which were defective and presented an unreasonable risk of harm to consumers, such as the Plaintiff.

44. As a result, the subject pressure cookers, including Plaintiff's pressure cooker, contain defects in their design which render them unreasonably dangerous to consumers, such as the Plaintiff, when used as intended or as reasonably foreseeable to Defendant Tristar. The defect in the design allows consumers such as Plaintiff [REDACTED] to open the lid while the unit remains pressurized, despite the appearance that all the pressure has been released from the unit, and causes an unreasonable increased risk of injury, including, but not limited to, first, second and third-degree scald burns.

45. Plaintiff [REDACTED] used the pressure cooker in a reasonably foreseeable manner and did so as substantially intended by Defendant Tristar.

46. The subject pressure cooker was not materially altered or modified after being manufactured by Defendant Tristar and before being used by Plaintiff.

47. The design defects allowing the lid to open while the unit was still pressurized directly rendered the pressure cookers defective and were the direct and proximate result of Defendant Tristar's negligence and failure to use reasonable care in designing, testing, manufacturing, and promoting the pressure cookers.

48. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Tristar's negligent design of its pressure cookers, the Plaintiff in this case suffered injuries and damages described herein.

49. Despite the fact that Defendant Tristar knew or should have known that the Plaintiff and consumers like Plaintiff were able to remove the lid while the pressure cookers were still pressurized, Defendant Tristar continued to market its pressure cookers to the general public (and continues to do so).

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendant Tristar for damages, together with interest, costs of suit, and all such other relief as the Court deems proper.

COUNT IV
STRICT LIABILITY - FAILURE TO WARN

50. At the time in which the pressure cooker was purchased, up through the time Plaintiffs were injured, Defendant Tristar knew or had reason to know that its pressure cookers were dangerous and created an unreasonable risk of harm to consumers.

51. Defendant Tristar had a duty to exercise reasonable care to warn consumers of the dangerous conditions or the facts that made its pressure cookers likely to be dangerous.

52. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Tristar's failure to warn of the dangers of its pressure cookers, the Plaintiff in this case suffered injuries and damages described herein.

53. Despite the fact that Defendant Tristar knew or should have known that consumers were able to remove the lid while the pressure cookers were still pressurized, Defendant Tristar continued to market its pressure cookers to the general public (and continues to do so).

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendant Tristar for damages, together with interest, costs of suit, and all such other relief as the Court deems proper.

DEAMNDS FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiffs demand that all issues of fact of this case be tried to a properly impaneled jury to the extent permitted under the law.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against the Defendant Tristar for damages, , to which they are entitled by law, as well as all costs of this action, interest and attorneys' fees, to the full extent of the law, whether arising under the common law and/or statutory law, including:

- a. judgment for Plaintiffs and against Defendant Tristar;
- b. damages to compensate Plaintiffs for their injuries, economic losses and pain and suffering sustained as a result of the use of the Defendant Tristar's pressure cooker;

- c. pre and post judgment interest at the lawful rate;
- d. that they be allowed to amend their complaint to include a claim for punitive damages, according to proof;
- e. a trial by jury on all issues of the case; and
- f. for any other relief as this Court may deem equitable and just, or that may be available under the law of another forum to the extent the law of another forum is applied, including but not limited to all reliefs prayed for in this Complaint and in the foregoing Prayer for Relief.
